Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Adam Clarke

Adam earned a bachelor's degree in arboriculture from the University of Central Lancashire. After graduating, he worked as an Arborist Climber at the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew in London, where he cared for and managed the garden's historic tree collections. In 2010 he joined Bartlett, where he has continued to build extensive experience across all aspects of tree care.

Adam is an ASCA Registered Consulting Arborist (#736) and ISA Board Certified Master Arborist (#UI-1167B) with over 20 years of experience in the tree care industry. He has had the pleasure of working on significant and historic properties including the Royal Palaces in London and George Washington's Mount Vernon, in Virginia. Adam has worked extensively with residential and commercial properties, helping clients care for and preserve their trees while addressing a wide range of tree health, safety, and landscape needs.

Adam lives in Terra Linda with his wife and toddler. Outside of work, he enjoys making the most of California's beautiful weather, hiking and bicycling throughout Marin. His favorite tree is now the Cork Oak!
