Austin Wujkowski

Austin was born and raised in Michigan, where his love of nature started at a young age with his family taking him camping, fishing, going to different beaches, and traveling. He has a bachelor's degree in forestry and a minor in Urban and Community Forestry from Michigan State University. After graduating, Austin was a lab technician for two professors at MSU, Dr. Deb McCullough and Dr. Bert Cregg. In 2021, he found a job at Bartlett Tree Experts as a Plant Health Care Specialist and a Groundsperson for tree service Crews.

Austin enjoys spending time on clients' properties and offering his thoughts, expertise, and recommendations about maintaining and promoting the overall health of landscape trees and shrubs. Austin is an ISA Certified Arborist and holds a Commercial Pesticide License.

In his free time, Austin loves to be in the natural world in any capacity. He loves to swim, go up North to his parent's cottage, discover a new tree, insect or fungus he didn't know about. He also loves to listen and play music, read, golf, travel and spend time with friends and family.
