Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Cory Fitzpatrick

Growing up on an apple and cherry orchard, Cory began work in and around trees at an early age.Â Learning the fundamentals of pollination and proper pruning inspired him to later follow his current passion into the industry of Arboriculture. Working as a climbing arborist for the first four years of his career, Cory quickly found that his love for trees went beyond simply caring for them. Seeing the need for a greater understanding of tree care in the urban and residential environment, Cory turned his attention to educating and providing the highest level of tree care service to the public as an Arborist Representative in the greater Seattle area. As an ISA Certified Arborist, Tree Risk Assessor, and TCIA Tree Care Safety Professional, Cory has found his calling with Bartlett Tree Experts and feels truly grateful to spread his enthusiasm for this increasingly important industry.
