Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Travis Bowden

Travis has been an avid outdoorsman his entire life, despite growing up in the city of Los Angeles. This drove him to spend over 11 years of service in the United States Army and achieve a bachelor's degree in forestry from the University of Kentucky in 2017. Part of a military family, Travis went on to gain experience working for Washington State as a forester with the Department of Natural Resources.

In 2020, Travis joined Bartlett Tree Experts in Tucson, Arizona, where he quickly mastered the roles of Climber, Crew Leader, and Safety Coordinator. He transferred to the Bel Air office in 2024, trading in cacti for hardwoods, where he became a licensed pesticide applicator in addition to his other roles. Travis is passionate about tree care and is an ISA Certified Arborist, MD Licensed Tree Expert, Licensed Pesticide Applicator, and a Tree Risk Assessor.

With five young kids and a mini-homestead, Travis does not have a lot of free time, but when he does, you'll find him tinkering in his woodshop.
