

Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Cory Deniker

Cory has grown up enjoying the outdoors and cherishing family, so it was a natural fit for him to find his place in arboriculture. The green industry combines one of our greatest natural resources - trees, and people, both of which he cares deeply about.

After completing the Forest Technology program at historic Penn State Mont Alto, Cory went on to earn a B.S. in Forest Science – Urban Forestry from Pennsylvania State University. Since becoming an ISA Certified Arborist in 2006, he has accumulated rich experience in urban forestry, arboriculture and natural resource management at both public, private and educational settings.

Cory and his wife, Jenn, have a young son and have recently relocated to the Lynchburg area. He loves a sense of community and being involved with family, friends and church. Aside from coaching little league, he enjoys various outdoor adventures, including hunting, fishing, camping, and growing a variety of tasty garden crops with his lovely wife.

Cory currently services the Lynchburg area. He looks forward to getting to know you while serving the needs of your landscape.
