Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Daniel Badolato

Daniel has always loved the outdoors and spent much of his childhood exploring Long Island's many parks and beaches. This led him to earn a degree in Adventure Recreation & Parks Management from SUNY Delhi. After graduation, Daniel worked for a non-for-profit in New Paltz, New York, building and repairing hiking trails. He soon moved to California where he worked for Redwood National Park. He gained a great deal of experience there in a variety of roles, including as a wilderness firefighter. Daniel returned to the east coast in 2019 and was a New York City urban park ranger prior to joining Bartlett Tree Experts in 2023.

As an Arborist Representative, Daniel uses his experience and the diagnostic resources of the Bartlett Research Laboratories, to provide sound recommendations for tree and shrub care. He is very passionate about helping clients improve and maintain the health and beauty of their landscapes.

When Daniel is not working, he is hiking, fishing, trying new places to eat, and spending time with his family and three dogs, as well just relaxing outside.
