John Wayne Hardison

John Wayne Hardison, who goes by John Wayne, has been in the arboriculture industry for over 20 years. His love for trees began as a small child following his father, a NC wildlife enforcement officer, through the woods and learning the connection with plants, trees, and animals. John Wayne's appreciation and knowledge grew as he was attending North Carolina State University earning his degree in Forest Management. John Wayne has been a Certified Arborist for since 2002. He founded and ran High Country Tree Service, Inc. for 16 years before proudly merging with Bartlett Tree Experts in 2018. John Wayne specializes helping production staff figure out how to get projects completed at a level that exceeds client expectations. Being part of Bartlett Tree Experts has increased John Wayne's knowledge by effectively diagnosing local soil conditions along with insect and diseases that threaten our communities landscapes and natural woodlands. He enjoys mountain biking, and all things outdoors with his yogi wife, Julie, son Ian 9 years old, and daughter Molly 6 years old. He puts lots of energy into giving back to the community where he lives.
