

Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Robert Case

Robert has a degree in business psychology from the University of Tennessee. After graduating, he volunteered for eight months doing desert restoration in southern California and then took a position in Wildland Forest Firefighting. These experiences fostered his love for maintaining our environment in both urban and natural areas. Robert first joined Bartlett Tree Experts in 2009 and advanced within the company, holding positions as Arborist Climber, Crew Leader, Safety Coordinator, and Arborist Representative before leaving in 2018 to move near his parents in Virginia. In 2021 Robert moved back to Washington and rejoined Bartlett.

Robert is a Certified Arborist with the International Society of Arboriculture (ISA), is Tree Risk Assessment Qualified (TRAQ), is a TCIA Certified Tree Care Safety Professional, and holds a Washington State Pesticide Applicator's license. He is dedicated to providing a high level of tree care and customer service to help clients maintain their urban landscapes.

In his free time, Robert enjoys rock climbing, trail running and hiking with his dog, gardening, and traveling.
