Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

James Maddox

Jim grew up in New England. He spent much time as a youth working in his grandfather's small town local hardware store. At three he was observing a neighbor split wood. Jim's interest in trees began. Much to everyone's surprise he split his first cord of wood. This soon became a household chore. After graduating high school, he served four years in the United States Marine Corp. After military service, Jim studied Urban Forestry at Essex Agricultural Institute in Danvers, MA where he became a Massachusetts Certified Arborist. Jim has been a tree climber, a Plant Health Care Specialist, and today Jim is a Certified Arborist and Maryland Licensed Tree Expert, as well as a Certified Tree Specialist. Jim enjoys the outdoors and spending time with his family.
