Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Jonathan Cowherd

Jonathan Cowherd has been passionate about trees and the outdoors from a very young age. He grew up as a Boy Scout, worked on many projects with the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, and learned about trees and the environment from his father, who works for the Natural Resources Conservation Service. Jonathan quickly realized his calling and decided to attend Virginia Tech, where he received a Bachelors of Science in Natural Resources Conservation, with minors in Forestry and Business. After graduating in 2010, he started working at Bartlett Tree Experts, where he has enjoyed and excelled at both insect and disease management and climbing; so much so that he finished as a top 10 competitor at the 2012 ITCC Mid-Atlantic tree climbing competition. He is a Maryland Licensed Tree Expert and an ISA Board Certified Master Arborist. Jonathan, his wife Kristine and his daughter Caroline love to travel, hike, and go to Orioles games. He also enjoys taking ski trips, golf, and playing one of the six musical instruments he owns.
