Meet Your Bartlett Arborist Representative

Pat Neech

With a keen interest in nature and the outdoors, Pat attended Cumbria University in the Lake District studying the environment and outdoor leadership. After three years, he graduated with a 2.1 BSc Hon degree in Outdoor Studies. After finishing university, he started his own business in garden maintenance and over a three-year period, he developed a regular client base with high customer satisfaction. Following this experience, Pat decided to pursue qualifications in arboriculture for which he attended Reaseheath College in Cheshire. Wishing to develop his arboricultural skills further, he gained a position at Bartlett Tree Experts where he was able to reinforce his experiences working in the field before transitioning into the position of Plant Health Care Technician at the Manchester office. In this position, Pat continued to develop his skills and knowledge base to provide a high level, valuable service for Bartlett Tree Experts' clients. In 2017, Pat progressed to the role of Arborist Representative and prides himself in providing the best possible solutions to his clients' tree care issues while also establishing long-term relationships.
